SHARP SINCE 1956

Providing high-quality Japanese tools that improve how the world cuts.

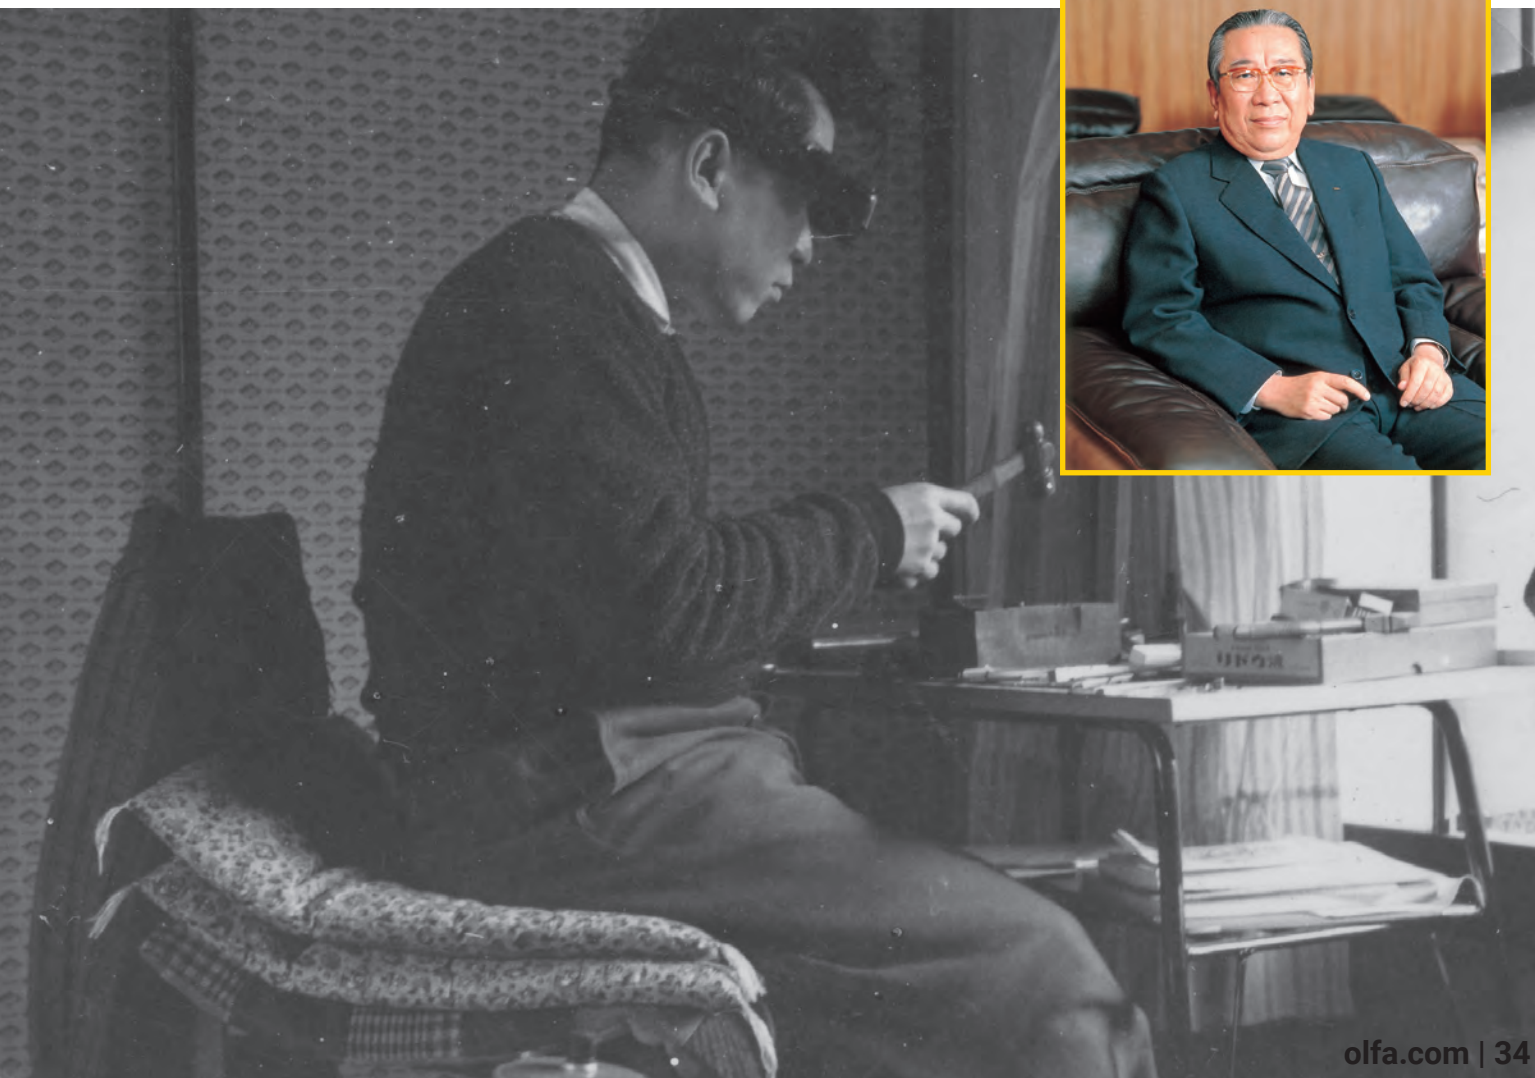

Yoshio Okada, the founder of OLFA, developed the first snap-off blade knife in 1956. He wanted an economical and efficient cutting tool that remained sharp. By snapping off the used blade segment, this knife revolutionized how people cut. The durable and reliable design improved work efficiency.

The angle and length of OLFA snap blades set the industry standard, which is now used around the world. Using high-quality steel, OLFA forges blades with technologies that stem from traditional sword-making. Expert honing sharpens each blade for extended blade life. Precision craftsmanship in every blade delivers superior performance.

OLFA high-performance handles house these ultra-sharp blades for the greatest cutting performance. Vigorous manufacturing standards ensure every OLFA handle provides user reliability.

OLFA remains committed to making tools that improve how people cut. OLFA creates professional-grade tools for construction trades, warehouse operations, and office work. Additionally, they specialize in creative tools used in paper crafts, quilting, modeling, and more.

Every OLFA product is the result of our commitment and attention to detail.
